CHAUFFEUR ADMITS ATTACK ON A GIRL

Lowell Wilsted, Arrested on a Serious Charge, Confesses His Guilt.

Salt Lake Telegram: Mrs. Samuel E. Hopper, 326 North Seventh West street, reported to Riley M. Beckstead, captain of detectives, yesterday afternoon that a chauffeur had made an attack on her 15-year-old daughter Sarah last Wednesday afternoon while the girl was tending her baby sister. At 9 o'clock last night Motor Policeman Hendrickson arrested Lewis Wilsted, a chauffeur employed by Clarence Bamberger, and placed him in jail. Wilsted confessed that he was the man wanted by the police and acknowledged that he was guilty of what the girl charged.

The girl said yesterday that Wilsted frequently passed her home in an automobile and that on any occasions he sounded the auto horn as he passed her, with the result that a passing acquaintance was formed.

Wednesday afternoon, she said, he invited her to a ride with him in the automobile, which she did, "taking with her a sister one year old.

After riding around the streets for a time, she said, the chauffeur drove to an unfrequented spot north of the Fair grounds, where, she said, he attempted to take the baby away from her and attempted to assault her.

The girl has promised to swear to a complaint this morning. Her father is a machanic and at present is working in Idaho.

When arrested Wilsted had little to say, except that it was true he had assaulted the girl.

Julia Marlowe--E. H. Sothorn Marriage

New York, Aug. 18.—The Romeo that E. H. Sothorn played to Miss Julia Marlowe's Juliet was not altogether a pretense of the stage, for this afternoon Manager Lee Shubert received a cablegram announcing that the co-stars were no longer two, but one. The marriage took place yesterday abroad.

The theatrical world is surprised, but not astounded by the announcement of this marriage. Indeed, it was stated that it was to have taken place immediately following the divorce obtained by Virginia Harned, Mr. Sothorn's first wife, in Reno more than a year ago.

On July 3 Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothorn appeared at the Broadway theatre in New York in "Macbeth." The engagement was for two weeks, but on the Fourth of July a placard in the lobby of the theatre announced that it had been cancelled owing to the illness of Miss Marlowe, who, it was stated had been overcome by the excessive heat.

A few days later Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe went abroad. Now comes the announcement of their marriage.

privileges of education while the parents are perfecting and improving the land. The railroad grade to the new town is also expected to be completed within two weeks.

A letter received by Mr. Cowley assures him that everything looks fine at the ranch and that winter wheat will go from 40 to 50 bushels to the acre, and that spring wheat also looks well, in fact everything that is growable is shown to perfection.

While it needs push and energy in new sections of the country, this is always repaid with increased crops, and increased valuations, so that a matter of a little time and labor, and the desert which only harbored the pungent sage, the scraggly greasewood, the prickly pear, the coyote, jack rabbit and the rattlesnake must soon take up its newer and more advanced garments, and what was once parched and arid, will again blossom as the Garden of Eden.

Push, energy and perseverance will make of the desert a beauty spot, and Utah push and energy is there in abundance to do it.

Metropolis, Nevada, is situated just a few miles east of Wells, Nevada, on the line of the Southern Pacific railway. Trains are taken out of Ogden by way of the Lucin Cut-off.

NO NEW LIGHT ON TRAGEDY

MRS. SOUTHWORTH
IS COOL WITNESS

Slayer's Wife Evades All Efforts to Involve Her in Compromising Admissions—Jury at Inquest Holds Slayer was "Jealous and Irrational"

We, the jury, find that the said E. L. Hanks came to his death at Glenwood park, Ogden, Utah, Saturday, August 12, 1911, about 9:30 p. m., said death being caused by one or more of five gunshot wounds fired from a revolver in the hands of and discharged by Henry Southworth. We further find that the said Henry Southworth was in an intense state of justly provoked jealous passion and that he committed the act while in this irrational condition.

The above verdict was rendered at the inquest over the body of "Ned" Hanks at Ogden, Friday, August 18.

Nearly the entire day was consumed at the inquest a number of witnesses being called to tell the story of the shooting as they recalled it.

While Mrs. Southworth was on the stand the attorney for Southworth made constant efforts to involve her in compromising admissions, but the witness was well able to hold her own in the matter, as was her mother Mrs. E. H. Lund, who was also called. Both women swore repeatedly that Saturday night was the second time Hanks and Mrs. Southworth had met and that it was the first time they had danced together.

There was no evidence to show that the pair had ever been together before and even the "fatal post card," said to have been signed "Ned," was not mentioned. The only missile referred to during the inquest was a post card which Mrs. Southworth admitted having received from E. Pintl, one of the band men. This she carried about with her for several days following her husband's receipt of it at the postoffice at Farmington.

Mrs. Southworth related in detail her actions on the day of the shooting. She denied emphatically the allegations that she told her husband that she intended going to Saltair for the day, but instead, related how he had told her that if she would raise $50 on the piano or the home and give it to him, he would leave the community and not trouble her again. On the advice of her mother, the witness said she refused to do this.

Mother Accompanied Band Men.

She told how she had come to Ogden with her mother and insisted that she did not see Hanks until a short time before the shooting. She and her mother took dinner at the Bon Ton restaurant, and when leaving the place they passed three of the band men eating in the front part of the room. They passed out alone and later separated, the mother going to Glenwood park with two of the band men, while she attended the picture show alone.

The witness told of receiving a post card from E. Pintl, which ran as follows: "Will stay in Ogden until Sunday. Best regards. E. Pintl, Helena Hotel. Phone 769." Not caring to go to the park to see Pintl, the witness stated that she went to the Bamberger station and wrote him a post card telling him she would not be able to see him, after which she remained until after 7:30 o'clock at the Bamberger station. She added that she did not mail the card to Pintl.

Mrs. Southworth then told how she concluded that her mother did not intend to return home on the 7:30 train and therefore she took a car for Glenwood park. On arriving there she and her mother went to the saucer track to hear the first part of the concert. At the intermission both left the track and were met at the gate by Hanks, who took them over to the dance hall and danced once with Mrs. Southworth. Coming out of the hall, the three started toward the rack, but stopped on the way for a drink of water. She told how Hanks had secured the water for them and as they were entering the gates of the saucer track her husband had rushed upon them from the rear and shot Hanks down.

Husband Introduced Band Men. The witness said that her husband had introduced the band men at their house and had always been agreeable in their presence, helping to wait on the table, dish out the ice cream and pass the beer as the occasion required. She told of being escorted home by Perino, a member of the band, and how Mr. Engstrom of Farmington had warned her that Southworth was looking for her. Perino then ran away from the scene and she said she went home to find Southworth in bed drunk.

She named eight or ten of the band men with whom she had "had ice cream" on various occasions at Wandamere, Salt Lake and Lagoon; also how her grandmother, aged seventy-two, had been one of the party to Wandamere on different occasions. She gave as her reason for coming to Ogden Saturday the fact that her mother was coming in order to collect a bill for $2.65 due from four of the band men for eggs and other farm produce which they purchased while living in Salt Lake.

H. L. Head ticket taker at the track; W. H. Wootton, motorman; Clyde Shupe, who witnessed the shooting; Parley H. Anderson, who helped carry out the body, and Patrolman Albert Herriek were also called as witnesses. Southworth was present throughout the inquest and conversed with his attorney and friends. He appeared depressed and was scarcely able to walk steadily to and from the court room.

The Five Great Races. In answer to the question, "What are the five great races of mankind?" a Chinese student replied, said Bishop Montgomery at the anniversary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, reports the London Mail, "the hundred yards, the hurdles, the quarter mile, the mile and the three miles." In another paper a Chinese student said that "Out of sight, out of mind," could be explained in two words, "Invisible, insane."
